Mock Trial -- An Introduction

Welcome to the 29th year of Orange County's High School Mock Trial Program! We're looking forward to working with you in an effort to make this year's Mock Trial Competition a complete success. Each year in the Fall, student teams from over 40 local high schools with the guidance of attorney and teacher coaches prepare for Orange County's Mock Trial Competition. We hope your team finds the case and the experience to be both exciting and educational, for students and teachers alike.

Enclosed in this packet, you will find details relating specifically to the Orange County Mock Trial Program. This packet is designed to enhance and supplement both the formal mock trial case packet and the competition rules. Should you have any question not answered in this packet, please contact CRF-OC Program Manager, Wendy Townsend at wtownsend@crfoc.org or 714.259.1521 x102.

On behalf of the Constitutional Rights Foundation of Orange County, we'd like to thank you for your support of this program and its ongoing effort to promote legal and civic education among Orange County's youth. Mock Trial has a proven track record of improving student's reading, writing and oral presentation skills. It has also been a powerful source of personal confidence for countless student participants. CRF-OC is proud of this program, but there can be no doubt: Orange County's High School Mock Trial would not be possible without you.

Objectives and Ethics

A copy of the Program Objectives and Code of Ethics is located on page 4 of the case packet. Additionally, CRF-OC has included the two following items as an addendum to the Code of Ethics for the purposes of the 2009-2010 Orange County Mock Trial Program. Please, take the time to read and discuss the Program Objectives and the Code of Ethics with your students.

1. Students who feel that the Code of Ethics was not strictly observed during the competition may bring their grievance to the attention of the Presiding Judge. CRF-OC staff will not hear complaints after the round of competition has been completed.
2. In keeping with the professional atmosphere in which the competition is conducted, frivolous grievances may cost the accusatory team up to 5 points. This point deduction will be exercised entirely at the Court's discretion.
3. Procedures for raising challenges:
 - Judges/Scorers

If you object to a judge or scoring attorney assigned to your match, such objection must be raised to CRF-OC staff before the match begins. Any objections not raised before the match begins are waived. CRF-OC staff retains full discretion concerning how to handle any challenge raised. When appropriate, CRF-OC staff will attempt to substitute another scorer for any scorers removed due to objections, but may be unable to do so.

In determining how to respond to such challenges, staff will be guided by the principle that there are three recognized grounds for objecting to a scorer: (1) a scoring attorney/judge is the coach of another mock trial team, (2) a scoring attorney works for the same firm as the coach of the opposing mock trial team, or (3) a scoring attorney/judge has a son/daughter who participates on another mock trial team. Staff members, however, will retain the discretion to deal with challenges raised on other grounds according to their judgment. Challenges based on the temperament of the scorer will not result in removal of the scorer.

- Win/Loss result

It is the goal of the Constitutional Rights Foundation of Orange County that every student who participates in the mock trial competition shall have his/her performance fairly evaluated by the volunteer scoring attorneys. There is a high degree of subjectivity inherent in the scoring of mock trial competitions. There will often be wide disagreement about the scores given to particular performances. Nevertheless, there may be instances when a mock trial coach believes it is appropriate to challenge the result of a match and/or a score as the result of a mistake or impropriety. Such challenges must be submitted to the CRF-OC in writing, received the day of the competition or the next business day thereafter. CRF-OC will provide a copy of the challenge and the scores at issue to the other team involved in the disputed match and invite comment from its teacher and/or coach. CRF-OC will retain complete discretion as to how to handle challenges submitted. Generally, CRF-OC will not disclose which scorer completed which scorecard. In the event that CRF-OC makes a finding that there is clear and convincing evidence that a mistake or intentional impropriety occurred, CRF-OC may announce a correction to a previously announced score and re-determine the winner of a particular match according to the corrected score.

III. Competition Format

1. The pairings for rounds 1-4 will be decided in a random fashion, with no team competing against the same team twice. Each team will be assured of competing twice as prosecution and twice as defense. First round assignments determine a team's order of prosecution/defense rotation for rounds 1-4.
2. Upon completion of round 4, only the top 16 teams will advance to round 5. Advancement will be determined by win/loss record. In the event of a tie, the average percentage of points received per round will be the deciding factor.
3. Round 5 commences the single elimination format. The top sixteen teams will be seeded according to their win-loss record and average percentage of points earned. During this, and the remaining rounds, a concerted effort will be made to match teams according to the following criteria:
 - A. That each team compete against a team not previously encountered.
 - B. That teams reverse prosecution/defense roles in each consecutive round.
 - C. That the overall seeding format (i.e. power matching) is preserved.

Scoring Rounds 1-7: Winners of each round will be determined by the team that has won the most scorecards during the match. The team with the most points on a scorecard wins the card. If there is a tie the team with the highest number of total points from all scorecards wins. If there is still a tie the presiding judge will be the decider.

Scoring the Final Round: Scoring during the final round is slightly different than the previous rounds. Both the morning and afternoon matches will have different presiding judges. The Champion team will be determined by the team who has won both matches. Winners of each match will be determined by the team that has won the most scorecards during the match. (The team with the most points on the scorecard wins the card). If there is a tie (both teams have won 1 match) the team with the highest number of total points from all scorecards wins. If there is still a tie the more senior presiding judge will be the decider.

IV. Team Rosters / Award Nomination Forms

1. Each team must bring to each round of competition 5 completed copies of their Prosecution/Defense Roster Form. (The forms for prosecution and defense assignments are included in this packet.)
2. The team roster will include the students' names and the role that each of the participants will be performing during that round of competition.
3. The rosters will be distributed to the judge and attorney-scorekeepers.

V. Timing

1. The clerk will record the precise time elapsed during each section of the presentation.
2. When "Time!" is called, the student speaking must immediately end the presentation. There will be no allowance for overtime.
3. Refer to the California Mock Trial Competition Team Rule Book for more details regarding timing.

VI. Odd Number of Teams

1. We ask that each team indicate on the teacher-sponsor agreement form if they have enough students to present both prosecution and defense cases in the same evening.
2. In the event that an odd number of schools register for the competition, CRF-OC staff will select a substitute team for each round. The substitute team will be chosen at random from those teams that have indicated their availability.
3. The substitute team's score will not count toward overall team rankings.

VII. Award Nominations

1. In order to show appreciation for the extensive volunteer efforts of teachers, judges, attorneys, and law firms, we ask that each school fill out the attached Nomination for Outstanding Contribution form (page 16).
2. All nominations must be submitted to CRF-OC staff by December 12, 2009.

Orange County Mock Trial Competition Team Structure Guidelines

The rules regarding team structure are located on pages 3-6 of the 2009-2010 California Mock Trial Competition Rules. In addition to these rules we would like to make the following recommendations in order to ensure that your team and your school get the most out of their Mock Trial experience.

1. We strongly recommend that you utilize the maximum allowable number of student attorneys. We recommend that you use different attorneys to do opening statements and closing arguments. We also recommend that each trial attorney perform at least one direct examination and one cross-examination.
2. We urge you to involve as many students as possible in other support roles, such as researchers, understudies, evidence monitors, photographers, and videographers.
3. We would like to remind you that Mock Trial teams must consist of a minimum of eight and a maximum of twenty students, not including the courtroom artists and/or journalists.
4. We are offering the optional competition for courtroom artists and journalists during the first four rounds. We encourage you to inform students of this opportunity. Information regarding these contests is included in each team packet, and we are happy to answer any questions you may have.
5. Schools may enter more than one Team but, all members of each team must compete exclusively for the team upon which they are registered. The two teams if drawn to play each other will be randomly redrawn for that round of competition. Teams are encouraged to title the teams with names that do not indicate a ranking. (i.e. Blue team and Gold team not Varsity and JV, or Team 1 and Team 2).
